Transformative Mediation 101 Q&A online, with Kristine Paranica

May 21 from 12-12:30 pm EST (live Q&A) Register for Transformative 101 Q & A Webinar

Curious about the Transformative Model and what it has to offer to mediators and conflict professionals? This model, developed over 25 years ago, offers insights into ways of looking at conflict, and how mediators and conflict professionals can support self-determination of people while they have difficult and important conversations about their conflicts. The Transformative Mediation 101 video answers the basic questions about Transformative Mediation – what the practice is rooted in and what it looks like in action, and the live Q&A allows time to explore the model.

When you sign up you will get access to Transformative Mediation 101 – a pre-recorded talk by Baruch Bush, Fellow and Founder of this model and the ISCT. After you watch the talk, attend the live Q&A with ISCT fellow and experienced practitioner, Kristine Paranica.

Responding, Not Reacting Workshop

Thursday, May 14 from 3-4:30 Eastern Time Register here for Responding, Not Reacting Webinar

When faced with stress, conflict and adversity, we often struggle to be our best. this workshop helps us explore why this happens to us and ways to find our way back to being stronger and more compassionate.

In this workshop, we will learn about common human reactions to difficult communication, and explore how these situations impact each of us. We will consider what guides our behavior in these moments, and learn practical strategies for responding deliberately, rather than reacting. This workshop is interactive and conversational, so come ready to engage.

Upcoming: Zoom Mediation at CDRC

Staff are diligently working to moving towards Virtual Mediation at CDRC. Franci and Gina have mediated a case already and are going to mediate the first few cases to work out the kinks first. We wanted to give you a sneak peek and see if this is something you would be interested in doing.

This is what clients will receive before their session: <https://youtu.be/1g6Fsd9kx2k>
